Alternative Loan Benefit Comparison Chart

This chart has been compiled to assist you in meeting your financial needs. Lenders are not affiliates and have been selected for inclusion on this chart based on their interest rates/fees as well as prior customer service. The Financial Aid Office has not received any type of incentive from these lenders in exchange for their inclusion on this chart. If you are not satisfied with the lenders on this list there are many lenders that offer alternative loans, and you are encouraged to research them to choose the best option. When you apply for an alternative loan, you do this through the actual lender; Perry Technical Institute has no control over the timeliness of the process. If you have a problem or concern, you should contact the lender directly. Your lender will inform you of any acceptance, denials, and additional information that they may need from you.

Borrowers who are interested in obtaining private education loans may qualify for federal student loans or other assistance under Title IV of the Higher Education Act and should apply for such federal aid before applying for a private education loan. The terms and conditions of loan made, insured or guaranteed under Title IV of the Higher Education Act typically may be more favorable than the provisions of private education loans.
